

Kitzbühel, August 20th 1966.

Dear Joe,

Herewith I am sending you the manuscript which I received from Robert Jungk with apologies on account of its rough form. Unfortunately I have nobody here in this days to type a proper copy. I am not quite sure whether the first sentence of the article is correct English and, therefore, I changed the first words by pencil. Please decide which version is better.

Although I shall not attend this years Pugwash Conference I shall submit a paper. The manuscript will be sent to you in a few days, and I shall be very glad if you see to it that it is copied and distributed. Thank you very much.

Vienna.

Enclosed you find the manuscript of my paper for the 16th Pugwash Conference. Please excuse its length and delayed delivery. I am hoping that it will not give too much trouble to your secretariat. I am sorry that I can not participate on account of my health. I should be very glad if you could reserve for me twelf copies of my paper. Please send them to Robert Jungk who bring them to Vienna.

Dear Joe,
