Professor Hans Thirring,
Wien IX.
Strudlhofgasse, 13,
Austria.

Dear Professor Thirring,

Power Production

Thank you for your letter of June 20. I have passed the information with regard to the error in the prospectus on to our Publicity Department, and they are making sure that this will be correct. In point of fact, the copies of the prospectus which went to Vienna were some advance ones, and we are able to adjust the main supply. This is a fortunate circumstance.

Your letter of June 13 also has not been acknowledged yet. Thank you for the addition to the index, which we are making use of. I am passing on the other information concerning the prospectus to the Publicity Department.

You made an alteration to the information on the title page about the diagrams. It seems on consideration that it would be better to let this read with 96 diagrams and illustrations in the text. There are not many illustrations, but certain of the blocks cannot be described as diagrams. It seems best to indicate them this way.

Yours sincerely,

GEORGE G. HARRAP & CO., LTD.
